Mowat - Of Hughina Garriock Mowat, who died at How, Stenso, Evie, Orkney, Sept. 3, 1893, aged 51 years.

No more we'll hear thy tender voice
In accents sweet and low
No more we'll hear thee plead with us

For thou art called away from us
Thy time on earth is o'er
Thou'rt gone to be with Him who loved
Across the Jordan's roar

And now beyond the swelling flood
Thy soul shall know no pain
No sickness, sorrow, care or death
Shall visit thee again

With patience did'st thou bear thy cross
While on thy bed thou lay
And waited many a weary hour
On view that blest day

When God should send his angels forth
To bear thy soul on high
To praise the Lamb thou loved, amidst
The glories of the sky

And how thy frail storm beaten bark
Has anchored sure and fast
Beside the shining gates of pearl
Where thou shall rest at last

A few short years will soon roll on
And we on high must soar
Where death divided friends we'll meet
Will meet to part no more.

No more we'll hear thy tender voice
 In accents sweet and low
 No more we'll hear thee plead with us

For thou art called away from us
 Thy time on earth is o'er
 Thou'rt gone to be with Him who loved
 Across the Jordan's roar

And now beyond the swelling flood
 Thy soul shall know no pain
 No sickness, sorrow, care or death
 Shall visit thee again

With patience did'st thou bear thy cross
 While on thy bed thou lay
 And waited many a weary hour
 On view that blest day

When God should send his angels forth
 To bear thy soul on high
 To praise the Lamb thou loved, amidst
 The glories of the sky

And how thy frail storm beaten bark
 Has anchored sure and fast
 Beside the shining gates of pearl
 Where thou shall rest at last

A few short years will soon roll on
 And we on high must soar
 Where death divided friends we'll meet
 Will meet to part no more.
